

The Charlotte Observer

FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1997

■ Dow Jones News Service has opened a Charlotte bureau to cover business news in the Carolinas, Virginia and Tennessee. "With its role in finance and textiles, and proximity to industries such as biomedical, information technology and tobacco, a Charlotte bureau made sense," said Charlotte-based staff writer Mary Ellen Lloyd. The bureau, which began operating in December, plans to open a permanent office in the next few weeks at the UCB Building, 212 S. Tryon St. It will share space with the Wall Street Journal/Southeast Journal.

Ian Bertolina successfully represented Dow Jones News Service with their office lease at 212 South Tryon Street.
